Apologies for my absence from the school gate

On Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday mornings I will now be teaching groups of year 6 children to help them to prepare for their SATs later this year. Please don't think I have abandoned my morning duty, it's just that we are all in it to support the children to get the very best results possible for them going forward into high school. Mrs Lawton will try to do alternate gate duties at the KS1 and KS2 gates.

Big thank you to Year 6 children and families

Y6 booster classes have started and they begin each day at 8.30am. Thank you to all families who are supporting this by getting the children into school earlier to help them revise and feel confident and prepared for the SATs. The families here are so supportive of everything; we really are very lucky to work with you. THANK YOU.

School Crossing Patrol

The Local Authority have been in touch to say that the crossing patrol officer has expressed concerns that some parents are parking on white lines and in places which is making crossing children and families across the road more difficult. Please make sure you do not park in any restricted areas in support of community road safety. Thank you.

Dangerous near-miss

On a similar theme (repeatedly) there was another near miss reported relating to cars pulling up outside the Kingsway school gates. One of the cars MADE CONTACT WITH A PRAM. Fortunately, nobody was hurt this time, but it was too close. Please do not pull into that area. In doing so, you are endangering our school community. Any concerned parents need to contact the council highways department. The more the better.

New Sports Provision

Commando Dan will no longer be in school as of next week. The new provision for PE is from Link4Life and we are excited to be welcoming Clinton to the fitness and health team here at Lowerplace who will be running sessions on Tuesday and Thursday throughout the day.

Big Maths Shout-Out!

This is to all the children who have been working so hard on their maths that they have already moved up a group! Well done and make sure you tell your parents about it so you can be celebrated at home as well as in school.
